Kelly Moran: A Hell of a Life

By Brian Burford

The History Press Ltd. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Kelly Moran: A Hell of a Life, Brian Burford, Kelly Moran practically lived every day of his life in the fast lane. Admired for his astonishing ability as a speedway rider, he's equally well-remembered for his off-track antics which have become legendary. Beginning his career as a youngster in the deserts of California by riding mini bikes in the 1960s, he made rapid progress as a professional and headed to England to race as a seventeen-year old where his promising career almost came to a crashing end when it was feared he'd never walk again. Under a year later, he had dispensed with the wheelchair and qualified for his first World Championship. From then on he was recognised as a rare talent, gracing the world's speedway tracks with a remarkable display of balance and skill that was as spectacular as it was effective. A triple World Finalist, a double World Team Champion and National Champion, he was equally renowned for enjoying himself. The scale of his activities almost cost him his life in a hotel accident in Poland, while his other adventures were wild enough to attract the attention of...
